Is the Gaia hypothesis accurate and are planets really sentient beings. Mark Bennett from the Aetherius society shares his knowledge.

The Logoi – Planets are Living Beings

By Mark Bennett

The Gaia hypothesis, formulated by Prof. James Lovelock in the 1960s, postulates that the Earth functions as a self-regulating system. In simple terms this means the Earth functions like a single living being. This hypothesis is interesting, but it is only just scratching the surface of the truth about what a planet really is. A planet is not simply an ecosystem that functions like a single living being – a planet is a single living being, in a very literal sense.

Planets are beings – just like we are beings, except that they are much more advanced than us. Their physical forms are their bodies – just like our physical forms are our bodies, except that theirs spin in a spiralling cosmic dance through free space, whereas we are protected by an atmosphere. And while size is no guarantee of quality, we have to bear in mind that their bodies are colossal relative to our own – which is to some degree a reflection of their mental and spiritual magnitude.

The life-stream itself – the intelligence – is within the planet, not its surface appearance. This is referred to as the “Logos” of a planet (plural “Logoi”). The word “Logos” is Greek for various concepts including: speech, oration, discourse, quotation, story, study, ratio, word, calculation and reason. The Theosophists used the term “Logos”, as have the Christians in a different context. In the Bible the last four words of John 1:1 in ancient Greek are “θεὸς ἦν ὁ λόγος” (“theos ēn ho logos”), literally “God was the word.” When I am talking about the Logos of a planet – it is something related to these terms, and yet distinct from them. It is related in the sense that it is God manifested – which is what, I believe, John 1:1 is about. Planetary beings are so advanced that they could be referred to as Gods or Goddesses – while still obviously being subordinate to the One God within all things. But in Theosophy and in traditional Christianity, as far as I am aware, there is no concept of planets being living Gods. Or if there is, it is certainly not as I am about to describe.

Earth

More than 18,000,000 years ago mankind lived on another planet, called Maldek. We destroyed this planet through nuclear catastrophe. Its physical remains are now the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter. This idea – of the asteroid belt being a former planet – seems to drift in and out of fashion, sometimes even among scientists. One day it will drift back in – to stay.

The Earth – as a living being – chose to accept mankind following this catastrophe. We were the murderers of her beloved Maldek. But, as cosmic refugees, she accepted us, to give us a planetary home through karmic experience, so that we could learn the vital lessons of life that will take us to God-realization. Otherwise, God knows where we would be – literally!

The Logos of any planet would defy the description of mortal man. And yet it is possible to actually see this – but only for the very greatest of Spiritual Masters. Dr. George King (1919-1997), founder of The Aetherius Society, describes seeing our Logos, in a state of projection from his physical body, in his amazing book Visit to the Logos of Earth. The Logos can take many forms, one of which Dr. King describes, from his own personal eye-witness account, as a huge Flame. Hundreds of feet tall, she took the form of giant multicoloured fingers of mystic fire reaching upwards.

We should never forget that she does not have to have us here. She could shake us from her back at any moment. But she does not. She has tolerated, with Divine patience, the nuclear catastrophes caused by mankind in Lemuria and then Atlantis, and still puts up with nuclear experimentation and warfare today – not to mention countless other anti-ecological abuses taking place on an ongoing basis. And not only this, but, in addition, there is not even the faintest thought of gratitude to her by the masses. You may feel grateful, I may feel grateful, the indigenous peoples of Siberia, the Americas, Australia and elsewhere may feel grateful. But, compared to the total population – it is a tiny percentage.

This puts mankind in grave karmic jeopardy. She does not require or demand our gratitude – or even basic respect. But the universe does. The universe will not allow a great intelligence to give endlessly, in selfless sacrifice, while others take advantage. It has to come to an end eventually. This is an aspect of the law of karma.

One manifestation of this is so-called natural catastrophes. This is not “Savage Earth”, as once described by a ridiculously-titled TV series. The Earth is not savage. We are savage. Natural catastrophes are not what the Earth wants for mankind – they are the karmic result of our wrong thought and action.

We can change this.

If mankind were to change – in how we treat each other, and in how we treat the Goddess beneath our feet – there would not be catastrophes in the way that there are now. It would not be necessary according to karmic law.

Other planets

The universe is teeming with life – much of it intelligent. In fact, much of it much more intelligent than us. The relationship a planetary race has with its supporting Logos seems to be one of the most important aspects of its evolution. We are very backward in this, not only expressing virtually no gratitude, on the whole, but even harming our Logos through nuclear experimentation and warfare. And let’s not forget that it is only a few million years ago that we actually killed our supporting Logos – Maldek.

On a more advanced world they would be aware of the fact that the planet on which they lived was a living intelligence – much more advanced than themselves. As such they would do their utmost to look after the physical form of this intelligence, and the very idea of any kind of wanton pollution that could affect their Logos would be an abomination to them.

They would also pray for their Logos – to express gratitude for their refuge in space. Prayer is little understood on Earth. In essence prayer is not some vague, supernatural, superstitious thing – it is the exact spiritual science of the flow of universal life force and how that force is conditioned. In other words, when they pray for their Logos, they are giving it energy. How useful this energy would be to the Logos depends on how advanced the planetary race is. But, irrespective of that, it is at the very least a gesture, in harmony with nature, and with the law of karma. As such, it will help the forces of nature on that planet, which will improve environmental conditions as well.

Praying for your Logos

We on Earth can pray for our Logos, and it will do a great deal of good. Our world is starved of spiritual energy, and any positive, unselfish outpouring of love for a higher being has to be a good thing. One of the best ways to do this is by using the Blessing for the Mother Earth in The Twelve Blessings channelled by Dr. George King in 1958. This will improve your personal karma, and the karma of the world to some extent, and help balance the forces of nature governing environmental conditions. It will also help bring about a rise in your consciousness.

However, when we pray, the energy does not go directly to the Logos for her use as an entity. It goes to her forces of nature. We do not have the ability – yet – to invoke energy of a high enough quality to be used directly by her, and nor do we have the ability to get the energy directly to the Logos herself, deep within the Earth.

Operation Sunbeam

However, contactee Dr. George King

(1919-1997) devised a brilliant solution to this problem – Operation Sunbeam.

In Operation Sunbeam, extraterrestrial intelligences invoke the energy for us, and then direct it to the Logos. These intelligences are far more advanced than us in every respect – and therefore can invoke a high enough quality of energy to be of use by a Logos, and they also have the know-how to get the energy through the chakras of the body of the planet.

These beings do not need our help in this Cosmic Mission. However, we are allowed to take part by setting up specially-designed equipment through which the energy is sent. This makes us a part of this operation – and therefore it is of tremendous benefit to the world as a whole in terms of balancing the karma of mankind. It is also tremendously beneficial to the karma of the individuals involved. As ever, however, this should not be the motive – the key motive is to give thanks to the Goddess Earth, as representatives of mankind.

This Mission – believe it or not – is so powerful that it actually reduces the devastation which would otherwise take place in so-called natural catastrophes. This may seem incredible – and the only way, in my opinion, to really begin to know that this is true, is to build a closer relationship with the Earth as an intelligence. I don't mean live in a tent alone in a forest – I mean mentally and spiritually, in terms of how we act in our everyday lives, regardless of where we are.

Using the power of the Logos

According to the extraterrestrial Master – Aetherius – speaking through Dr. King, we on Earth once had the ability to use the Flame of the Logos of Earth in such a way that it would have supplied all our needs, including long-lasting youth and freedom from disease. Whether this was the entire population, and when this was, is not stated, but hundreds of thousands, or even millions of years ago, is probable. Using the Logos in this way would not have been an exploitation – I doubt if such a thing would even have been possible – but a highly advanced, harmonious, spiritual union. As we on Earth fell away from true spirituality, our relationship with the Logos would inevitably have deteriorated drastically. This being the case, her great powers would not have been accessible to us.

Intelligent life in the Solar System

Intelligent life exists on other planets in the Solar System, except, for the most part on Earth...!

We are the backward race – they are more advanced than us. They are so advanced in fact that they have moved on to a higher material plane of existence, which is why our current science cannot detect their civilizations. Mars and Venus may be barren and lifeless on this plane – if we are to believe what our scientists tell us – but regardless of whether or not this is true, no scientist can preclude the possibility of life at a higher frequency of vibration on these planets.

Here are some revelations given by extraterrestrial Masters through Dr. King about how other races in this System interact with their Logoi:

Mars

Many of the intelligences native to the planet Mars do not need to eat in any way. Instead they live on Solar vibrations and energy from the Logos of Mars. They have been taught how to tap the mighty powers of their Logos by beings from Saturn, who are more advanced than they are.

Jupiter

The situation is similar on Jupiter. Jupiter and Mars are at the same level of evolution, but the Martians tend to be more industrial and mechanical in their aptitudes, while the Jupiterians are more artistic. The Jupiterians have also contacted the Logos of their planet and can live on the radiations from this Logos. They also feed upon Solar energies, and their music energies, perfume energies and colour energies.

Venus

Venus is a more advanced planet. They too were given knowledge by the Saturnians, which enabled them to contact the Logos of their planet. In fact, the Saturnians, by the power of thought, even created a Temple on Venus made of specially-grown crystals, which enabled everyone on the planet to absorb the spiritual, psychic, mental and physical nourishment given freely by this Logos.

Some Venusians can even have direct communion with the Logos itself. And the Logos of Venus can communicate – through beings on Saturn – with Masters on the Sun, and even at times with the

Saturn

This is the most advanced planet in the System. On the surface of the planet there is only one building. This is a great Temple with a dome that shines like the Sun to radiate powers throughout the galaxy. This Temple, like that of Venus, is made of crystal and was constructed by the power of thought. The crystals used live and grow together – giving the building a life of its own.

But, most remarkable of all, this Temple is actually an aspect of the Logos of the planet itself!

Logos of the Sun – the holiest being in the whole Solar System.

There are two Temples forming a magnetic line from the heart of the Logos of Venus to the surface – this surface Temple (mentioned above) being located in the region known as the Valley of the Sun. From this Temple power is radiated throughout the System, though the vibrations are too high to be appreciated by the majority of people on Earth. A beautiful description of the Valley of the Sun is given in Dr. George King’s unique book You Are Responsible!.
